

What if your creative, digital and entrepreneurial skills together become the drivers for a hybrid artistic career?

What if innovative modes of musical performance inspire you to develop a unique personal approach and artistic identity?

What if a personal socio-cultural narrative expands your artistic practice beyond your music instrument?

What if... you become the curator for your artistic self?

What if a sustained relationship with your community leads to new audiences and fruitful partnerships?

Those are the challenges that we will tackle in a 7day bootcamp in October 2021 in the city of Ghent (Belgium).

And that's why we need your insights, collaboration and creative approach!

What?

The bootcamp is part of the Creative Europe project "The self-curating musician: professional skills by design thinking" where students, young professional musicians and teachers of 5 countries (Portugal, Greece, Estonia, the Netherlands and Belgium) join forces to find solutions and formulate recommendations for a future-oriented curriculum for trained musicians with focus on classical or contemporary music.

What's in it for me?

- Meeting & connecting with fellow students, experts, teachers, music & interdisciplinary artists
- Peer-to-peer learning and creating
- A challenging hackathon
- Inspiring speakers, interactive workshops, seminars and participative creative sessions
- The experience of a design thinking approach
- A Certificate of Participation
- A 7 day stay in the beautiful city of Ghent
- We-time: social interaction, togetherness and fun
- Me-time: availability of personal rehearsal rooms
